NITI Think Tank Project was Selected by the Paris Peace Forum in 2019 !

Building a Multilateral Conversation & Collaboration Platform between South-South Cooperation & the “Belt and Road Initiatives”

NITI believes that the principle of multilateralism is more likely to provide effective, cutting-edge and revolutionary approach to accumulate supports from all stakeholders from professionals, business leaders, NGOs, local governments, even heads of states and UN. This allows formation of a dialogue platform for collaboration and negotiation of collective actions. Furthermore, the multilateralism can encourage the engagement of young people. In sum, multilateralism is the key for openness and transparency, and the common ground for collective action, to mitigate and solve the challenges facing by the international community.

South-South cooperation is a comprehensive cooperation framework proposed by developing countries with supports from the United Nations. Since China proposed the “Belt and Road” Initiative, NITI believes that the research on the gap and potential bridging between South-South cooperation and the “Belt and Road” Initiative is very important. Both are highly Overlapping one another with complementary, and there is a lack of discussion mechanisms and few cooperation projects. Therefore, he believes that under the principle of multilateralism and collective action, a platform of dialogue and collaboration between South-South cooperation and the “Belt and Road” Initiative should be established.

The Paris Peace Forum focuses on the implementation of the project, and our project aims to try to solve the problems faced by the current South-South collaboration and the “Belt and Road” Initiative through the establishment of a multi-dialogue collaboration platform. The platform will combine the experience and advantages of South-South cooperation with the resources from the “Belt and Road” Initiative, bring both system and their challenges to a discussion table constructed based on openness, transparency and equality. Therefore, challenges can be overcome and win-win situation can be achieved, making it a sustainable facilitator for global governance.
